LÄGLER sanding seminars now include the subject of surface finishing

LÄGLER's seminars on the subject of "sanding wooden floors" are very well received. Parquet floor layers from all over Germany are taking the opportunity of getting know-how at first hand.

During the first block of seminars in autumn 2005, numerous participants suggested integrating the subject of surface finishing in the training sessions. With the paint manufacturer Eukula, LÄGLER has found a competent partner who will enrich this part of the seminar training with both theory and practice in future.

The first spring seminars have already shown that this new concept is being very well received by participants. "The seminar contents sanding and surface finishing complement each other perfectly," says Managing Director Susanne Lägler, who considers the seminars extremely important.

Together with the LÄGLER experts Thomas Pfeil and Günter Roß, the Eukula technician Bernd Kuttler makes up a competence team that can provide valuable answers and hints on all sorts of sanding issues. The next LÄGLER seminars for beginners and professionals will take place in autumn 2006. More information under www.laegler.com.
